PREFACE

As stated in the preface to the SUPPLEMENTARY INDEX for 1903 to the PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL, the cost of the original Index proved to be such as to make it impracticable to re-issue that publication in revised shape from year to year. The present SUPPLEMENTARY INDEX, however, includes in one alphabet the additional material of the Index of 1903 and the further material of 1904, as stated below. This SUPPLEMENTARY INDEX therefore supersedes that for 1903, including its material, and combined with the original Index of 1902 makes a comprehensive index to the several catalogues included in the PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL from 1902.

The present work includes four classes of entries:

1. Those covering books old or new in catalogues from publishers represented in 1903 and 1904 and not included in the CATALOGUES volume for 1902.

2. Those covering new books in catalogues of publishers represented both in 1902 and the more recent CATALOGUES volumes.

3. Those covering, so far as practicable, changes of publishers resulting from combinations of publishing houses, changes of ownership and changes in prices.

4. Those covering errata and omissions in former INDEXES.

The SUPPLEMENTARY INDEX thus brings the original INDEX up to date and indexes all new material, and is put at the service of the trade in the early Fall at the opening of the busy season.

It is absolutely impossible to publish this INDEX at the same time with the CATALOGUES volume and give it accurate comparison with the lists which do not reach us until the INDEX is well in type. We must depend upon the publishers for advance information on new books, and some of them are uncertain about books to be included in their lists until it is too late for us to cover them. Information which reached us during the progress of the editing and proof reading has been included in the main alphabet when it was possible to do so; material which reached us after the pages of the main alphabet had been passed for press is included in the Addenda. In the case of some books, therefore, the author entry may be found in the main alphabet, and the title or subject in the Addenda and vice versa; therefore, the Addenda should be considered as an integral part of the Index and consulted accordingly.

There have been within the last three years an unusual number of changes in publishing firms, and some of the houses which have taken over publications have not been fully prepared to say which of the books acquired would be added permanently to their own catalogues. It is not possible to make a wholly accurate index that is not out of date before it can be put at the service of the trade. The great aim of the INDEX to the TRADE LIST ANNUAL is to direct dealers to the publishers of books inquired for. We have endeavored to include prices, as accurately as possible, but the new net system has led to many changes that have not been fully reported.

The following list indicates the most important changes by transfer of books to other publishers:
